

The star jewellery

The movies, dramas and famous stage shows always depict what your favorite film stars are wearing. You get an idea of their latest jewellery and boutique clothes too. In the end of the show, the courtesy comes as the names of some great jewellery and dress designers. You would always notice that their jewellery is always in great matching with their outstanding outfits.

The celebrities mostly wear very expensive diamond jewellery. They usually don't go for imitation stuff. If some change is needed in the drama shoots, they change the jewellery accordingly. Their jewellery and their costumes should be in perfect harmony.

For example, Kate Winslet in Titanic wore wonderful jewellery of 1900. Her wonderful outfits were designed by famous designers. The dresses and jewellery items worn by her were authorized. She would also be seen wearing black dresses and diamond jewellery at the awards ceremonies. Even Rachel Weisz would be seen wearing a black gown with some delicate jewellery at the awards.

Catherine Zeta Jones is an ambassador for Di Modolo and often wears their stylish jewellery. She will be seen wearing beautiful diamonds by the company. A diamond bracelet would be seen around her wrist. Mariah Carey loves collecting diamonds butterfly earrings.

Noteworthy point is what looks very simple and natural is very difficult to achieve. A great effort goes in making the things easy and simple. Would you have expected something which came in vogue in later half of twentieth century appearing in film 'Titanic' which sank in the ocean in second decade of the century? How ridiculous would it have looked? Now consider the designs of jewellery in fashion in those days. The style of clothes people used to wear. To acquire the authentic knowledge of all relevant things, including the design of the ship, and then get them prepared would not have been easy.

To elucidate the point further, many of you must have heard the name of Queen Cleopatra of Egypt. A film on her was made in the sixties of last century. The role of Queen Cleopatra was played by Elizabeth Taylor. It was a lavishly made picture. Everything looked so easy and natural that the film was widely acclaimed.

Can you imagine how much pain the director of the film must have had taken to make the things look natural. Learning about Cleopatra's life would have been just the beginning. Deep knowledge of the living conditions of that time, including the way people used to dress, would not have been easy. To create them in real life and then to show them on the screen must have been a real challenge.

Therefore always look beyond what your favourite stars are saying or what they are wearing. This applies to everything including the jewellery they wear.

You can also check out the jewellery details on your local channels and see what jewellery local stars like to wear. Their wear would give you an idea of the latest trend in the fashion and jewellery industry. See where the jewellery fashion is going.

About the Author

Anita Johnston is an expert in the field of diamond necklaces, diamond rings, and diamond pendants. Learn more about how to Buy Diamond Jewelry and diamond jewelry and fashion by visiting <http://www.webtrify.com/>.

Source: <http://www.cellocity.net>